

Overall Engineering – Our Expertise

The networking of technical building services is steadily increasing and thus also the complexity in the processing of the connections between the different trades.

The overall planning of electrical engineering ensures that the planning and execution of all disciplines in building electrical engineering are coordinated and technically optimised. Through the internal management of the connection points amongst the different trades, our clients are relieved of the administrative tasks, and the quality is improved.

Our range of services covers the following areas:

- Electrical engineering (high and low current)
- Building automation
- Security (technical and structural)
- Fire protection (technical and structural)
- Communication
- Multimedia
- Building IT

With the overall planning of electrical engineering, you receive all services from a single source.

Challenge us – together we will win!